Biography

JSB seeks that musical and emotive sweet spot between rock's psychedelic swagger and the realness of the honest, introspective lyricism of John Spignesi's songwriting.

The New Haven based trio is: vocalist and songwriter John "Spigs" Spignesi on guitar, with Joe Jeffery (bass) and Matt Alling (drums). Together they hang out, genre-wise, at the more rocking side of the New England regional Jam Band festival and club gig scene, and like to consider what they share as "Music For Your Soul."

JSB's performance is grounded in a brotherhood created amongst the band members. The phrase often uttered is "No Reverse" which means they are seeking always to add to their performances and to the audience's experience with improvisational intensity. At the band's core, though, is a deep and personal honesty of John Spignesi's lyrics, which range from all out party vibes to the real self-doubts we all encounter every day.

JSB has been at home in the studio and the stage. Since their formation, the band has released recordings at a sometimes-dizzying pace, from full studio albums to fun one-off releases like their Halloween take on Edgar Allan Poe's, "The Raven."

With hundreds of gigs under their belts, the band has had breakout performances at Strange Creek Campout, as well as the iconic Yasgur's Farm in Bethel NY, where they celebrated the 50th anniversary of Woodstock.

JSB is also thankful to perform at numerous non-profit events, all of which give back to the community that the band is so grateful to be a part of.

The band aims for every show, every set, every song, and every note to be played with conviction — sharing it all with the audience and leaving it all on the stage.

Review #1:

“John Spignesi Band makes their sound truly live on “JS3”. Everything about the album shows the group pouring their blood, sweat and tears into the whole of the journey. Though only a trio, it never sounds like it, with their interplay conjuring up a sort of cinematic grace to the proceedings. The sheer fact that they were able to record something that neatly framed the good vibes and energy they radiate is a huge accomplishment.”

“Spignesi leads the way, in the way a jam band leader should.”

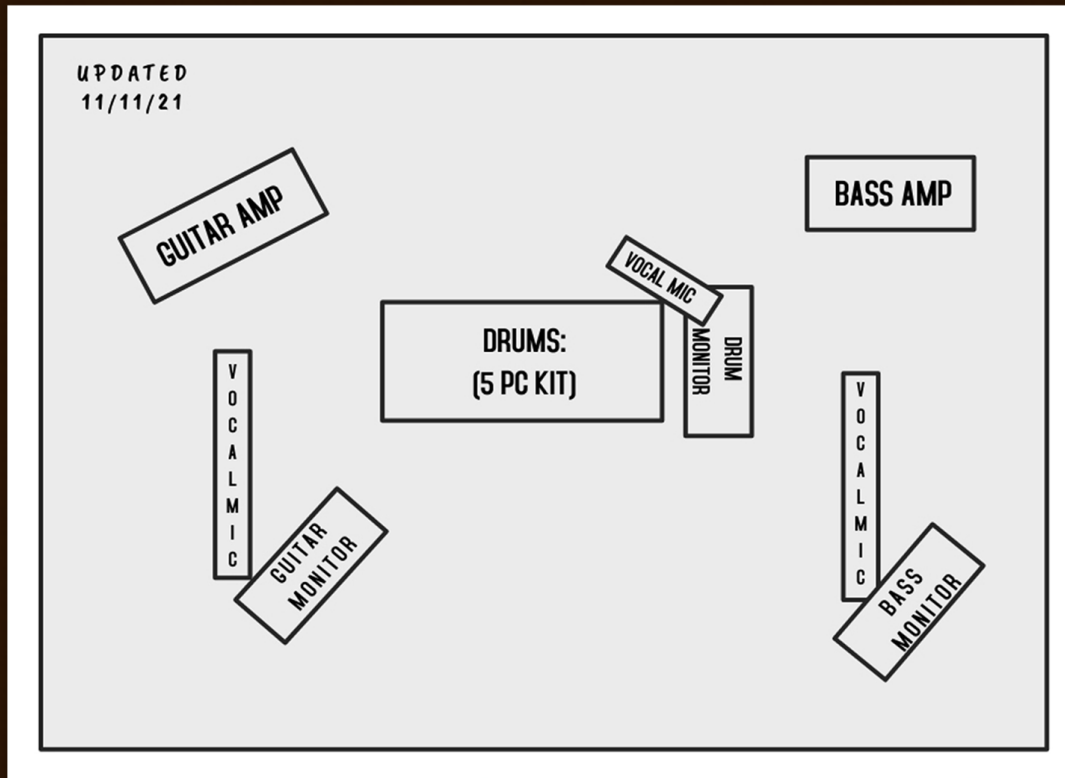

–Rene Cobar, New England Deli Magazine

Review #3:

“I usually don’t shill for bands, but the way these guys throw themselves their instruments? You have to see them live.”
